

Eyes on Korea: The Emerging Epicenter of the Rare Earth Supply Chain

written by Jack Lifton | August 11, 2023

To sum up, while the global discourse frequently orbits around China and the US, the Korean rare earth landscape is bustling. Their relentless quest to develop a comprehensive domestic supply chain for rare earth permanent magnets will invariably lead to a demand spike, which may catch many by surprise.