

Geoff Atkins talks about Vital Metals' transitional year from developer to producer in 2022

written by InvestorNews | June 1, 2022

In this InvestorIntel interview with host Tracy Weslosky, Vital Metals Limited's (ASX: VML | OTCQB: VTMXF) Managing Director Geoff Atkins talks about the company moving from rare earths miner to producer in the coming months.

In the interview, which can also be viewed in full on the InvestorIntel YouTube channel (click here), Geoff talks about production from Vital's Nechalacho rare earths project in the Northwest Territories going to its Saskatoon extraction plant, with production of high purity rare earth carbonate forecast to commence in June 2022, and its rare earths product to be sold to Vital's take off partner in Norway later this year. Geoff goes in to explain, for Vital "this year is that transformational process from developer through to operator."

Being an Australian company with both its cornerstone project and processing facility in North America, Geoff also discusses increasing the company's presence in the North American markets in the coming months as it moves to producer.
