

FinCanna Capital Provides Update on its Investment in Cultivation Technologies, Inc. in Irvine, California

May 28, 2019 (Source) – FinCanna Capital Corp. (“FinCanna”) (CSE: CALI) (OTCQB: FNNZF) a royalty company for the U.S. licensed cannabis industry provides an update on its investment in Cultivation Technologies, Inc.

(“CTI”).

On May 2, 2019 FinCanna announced that to protect its shareholders’ investment it acquired all of the rights and interests of CTI in substantially all of the existing property of CTI through a foreclosure at public auction pursuant to California Commercial Code section 9610. The consideration paid by FinCanna was a partial offset against total amounts owing to FinCanna by CTI, and the amount of the remaining balance is still owed to FinCanna. FinCanna and CTI are in discussions towards the best path forward for the underlying businesses of CTI.

The foreclosure has been challenged by certain purported shareholders of CTI against CTI, and earlier this year, plaintiffs in the same case sought and failed to obtain a preliminary injunction against CTI. The case, pending in in the Superior Court of California for Orange County, alleges that CTI and its employees harmed CTI’s shareholders by a number of actions, including by failing to stop FinCanna’s foreclosure, which they falsely allege to have been conducted with the cooperation of CTI.

“Given the impact the foreclosure of CTI has on the various stakeholders, we are aware of legal challenges that have been made against the company and expect that additional challenges may also be made,” stated Andriyko Herchak, CEO of FinCanna Capital. “We believe FinCanna was wrongfully included in a lawsuit filed and are confident these unproven allegations will be found by the appropriate judicial forums to be without any substance or merit. Additionally, we will vigorously defend ourselves against these claims and intend to actively pursue counter-claims against these accusations to protect the rights of our shareholders. We maintain a very strong cash position and a diversified investment portfolio that includes three additional companies. We will announce any material changes relating to our investments as we continue grow and expand our business.”

FinCanna maintains that the actions taken to protect its contractual interests after investor concerns regarding CTI were duly considered and implemented, and counsel advises that this to be lawful in every respect. Moreover, the company will continue to take appropriate countermeasures to protect the rights and interests of its shareholders.
