

MedX Health Corp. Adds Health Care Expertise to Its Board of Directors

October 15, 2020 (Source) – MedX Health Corp. (“MedX” or the “Company”) (TSX-V: MDX), a Company focused on becoming the global leader in teledermatology, announces that it has appointed Anthony Milonas and Wayne Cockburn as Directors of the Company, effective immediately. Mr. Milonas and Mr. Cockburn have extensive senior management experience working with medical device and health care growth-stage companies, both nationally and internationally.

Mr. Milonas is President and CEO of Canadian Orthodontic Partners, a company overseeing a national network of orthodontic practices. Mr. Milonas was responsible for the expansion of the group’s number of practices from 28 to approximately 55 and has held senior roles in both large publicly-traded companies as well as privately-held small and mid-sized companies. Mr. Milonas stated, “I am looking forward to working with such a talented team. MedX’s SIAscopy™ combined with its DermSecure™ platform are, in my view, an ideal combination for today’s challenging environment and the shift towards digital health care.”

Mr. Cockburn is President of The Clinic Network Canada, one of Canada’s largest providers of out-of-hospital pain management services. Mr. Cockburn previously founded the medical device company, iTech Medical, leading it through product approval in Europe and Canada. “I am very pleased to be joining the MedX team at such a pivotal time,” Mr. Cockburn said. “The meticulous development, regulatory and commercialization work that they’ve done over the past several years has, I believe, put them in a good position to not only become a leader in their field, but also allow them to save the lives of so many people who become affected by skin cancer.”

“We are delighted to add two executives of such notable experience to our Board,” noted Rob von der Porten, Chairman of MedX. “Anthony and Wayne have each held multiple leadership roles and have been integral in transforming smaller companies into strong organizations through the optimization of business strategies and operations, the pursuit of strategic partnerships and the building of brand channels. They both have a proven track record of bringing an operational focus in managing and growing healthcare companies and driving the profitable growth and expansion of businesses at national and international levels. Their insight will be invaluable as we build out the sales pipeline for our SIAscopy™ on Dermsecure™ telemedicine platform.”
