

Giyani Supports Canoe Mining Venture RT0 Agreement With OpenPort Limited

written by Igor Makarov | March 22, 2018

March 21, 2018 (Source) – Giyani Metals Corporation (TSXV:WDG) (GR:A2DUU8) (“Giyani” or the “Company”) is pleased to comment on the announcement made yesterday by Canoe Mining Ventures Corp.

Canoe Mining Ventures Corp. (“Canoe”) yesterday announced their intention to complete a reverse take-over (RT0) with OpenPort Ltd. (“OpenPort”) of Hong Kong. OpenPort is a private blockchain technology company generating significant top line revenue with a Fortune 500 client base across Asia currently utilizing their proprietary transport management system (“TMS”) and digital logistics network. Canoe and OpenPort are currently engaged in a joint development effort to build a Mining Operations Logistics Solution (“MOLS”) that leverages OpenPort’s blockchain software and logistics expertise and Canoe’s mining industry knowhow. MOLS is being designed to service the traditional mining industry using a blockchain protocol to track and deliver drill samples and/or finished resources.

Giyani currently owns 13,690,000 common shares in Canoe, and as a major shareholder offers full support to the transaction by, in principal, agreeing to a lock up agreement voting in favour of the RT0 and a voluntary escrow of their shares as may be necessary during the transaction completion period.

“Giyani’s partial ownership of Canoe represents a previously underperforming asset that is about to return great value to our Company and shareholders; we fully support this transaction which will boost the intrinsic value of our Company,” said CEO, Robin Birchall.
