Mr. Smith, President and Chief Executive Officer of Largo, stated: "The Maracás Menchen Mine continued to provide solid production results for the second quarter of 2018 representing a sound improvement over Q1 2018. Although production during the month of May was slightly impacted as a result of Brazil's country-wide truckers' strike, our team was able to take advantage of the downtime to complete maintenance across the plant."

Mr. Smith continued: "V205 prices continued to edge higher with the latest European Metal Bulletin price range posted during the week of July 6 being US$18.50–$19.00/lb, which puts us in a good starting position for the third quarter. Management continues to remain very optimistic for the year ahead as the Company begins the construction phase of the Maracás Menchen Mine expansion plan which will see capacity increase at the mine from a total of 800 tonnes produced per month of V205 to 1,000. We look forward to providing the market with updates as the expansion plan construction commences."
