August 19, 2021 (Source) – Months of planning leads to design of a marketing campaign using leading edge data to support the Rite Aid launch

Rritual Superfoods Inc. (“Rritual” or the “Company”) (CSE: RSF) (FWB: ØRW) (OTCQB: RRSFF) is excited to announce that the Company is launching a comprehensive marketing campaign to support the national rollout of Rritual products with Rite Aid throughout the USA.

The Rite Aid national rollout represents a major achievement for the Rritual brand. It validates both supply and demand for the category, while validating Rritual's product quality and the rapidly growing interest of consumers in functional superfoods. Rritual is striving to not only lead this emerging category, but to define it. A significant part of achieving that goal is accomplished through gaining the trust and support of consumers through top tier retailers such as Rite Aid and CVS.

Rritual Superfoods comprehensive marketing campaign to support Rite Aid's national rollout combines a geo-targeted marketing initiative, with in-store merchandising and RiteAid.com brand building programs. Internal leadership has worked aggressively with agency partners to develop this leading-edge marketing campaign designed to build significant brand awareness for Rritual and drive consumers to Right Aid point of sale locations throughout the USA.

“As we have stated previously, Rritual’s retail strategy is disruptive, the Company is aiming at national retailers rather than regional rollouts in order to gain market share and category defining leadership,” said Mr. David Kerbel, Rritual CEO and Director. “Working with our agency partners, our team has developed a program that will maximize the opportunity for growth with Rite Aid, and very importantly deliver data from which we can draw insights to strengthen our marketing programs going forward.”
