Trevor Jones of Lynx Global Intelligence on Using AI & Technology for Data Collection and Compliance

written by InvestorNews | March 31, 2023

In this InvestorIntel interview during PDAC 2023, Melissa Sanderson talks with Trevor Jones, Founder and CEO of Lynx Global Intelligence about its business intelligence ("BI") software platform that collects data from various sources such as sensors, satellite images, and field data, and puts it into one centralized database. This allows both people on the ground and managers in the C-suite to see all the data that pertains to compliance, ESG, health and safety, security and risk, and other monitored aspects of the business.

Trevor mentions that the platform uses artificial intelligence ("AI") tools to help its users query large amounts of data and support teams around the world. He also says that the platform can help mining companies comply with various ESG reporting by aligning data to pre-configured standards with a click of a button, saving clients time and money.
