Dr. Rahul Kushwah on Predictmedix's remote patient monitoring technology and Mobile Wellbeing

written by InvestorNews | November 5, 2020

In a recent InvestorIntel interview, Tracy Weslosky speaks with Dr. Rahul Kushwah, Co-Founder and COO of Predictmedix Inc. (CSE: PMED | OTCQB: PMEDF), about their infectious disease screening technology and remote patient monitoring platform, Mobile Wellbeing.

In this InvestorIntel interview, which may also be viewed on YouTube (click here to subscribe to the InvestorIntel Channel), Dr. Kushwah talked about the successful North American deployment of Predictmedix's infectious disease screening technology at Flow Water in Aurora, Ontario. Dr. Kushwah went on to provide an update on their Mobile Wellbeing platform. "It is in telehealth and telemedicine business, but it does more than that." He continued, "It does something which is referred to as remote patient monitoring." Dr. Kushwah added that Predictmedix is targeting clinical trials and long-term care markets with its Mobile Wellbeing platform. FDA now has very strong guidance which is promoting remote patient monitoring and that brings Predictmedix's technology to the forefront.

In the interview Dr. Kushwah also said that Accenture, a multinational professional services company and a Fortune Global 500 company, recently wrote about how Predictmedix is innovating to help with the current COVID-19 pandemic (click here to read the article). "It should indicate to shareholders that not only our technology is disruptive but we are clearly in a market segment which is not only ballooning right now but is going to be huge as time goes by.” Dr. Kushwah commented. To watch the full interview, click here
