

Chairman Kim Oishi on Datable Technology's 77% revenue increase last year and their Data Management Platform

written by InvestorNews | April 4, 2022

In a recent InvestorIntel interview, Chris Thompson interviews Datable Technology Corp.'s (TSXV: DAC | OTCQB: TTMZF) Executive Chairman Kim Oishi about Datable Technology's Data Management Platform and the company's recent results and progress.

The interview may also be viewed on the InvestorIntel YouTube channel (click here to subscribe).

Kim Oishi comments on how Datable Technology's platform works and some of its advantages compared to other marketing strategies. For example, one advantage is that consumers choose to share their data in return for rewards and that companies can track consumer trends and any additional incremental revenues achieved by the platform. Kim Oishi also discusses Datable Technology's revenue outlook and some of their well-known large consumer brands that are customers such as Universal Studios.

Kim Oishi on Datable's consumer marketing technology used by some of the world's biggest brands

written by InvestorNews | April 4, 2022

In a recent InvestorIntel interview, Tracy Weslosky spoke with Kim Oishi, Executive Chairman of Datable Technology Corporation (TSXV: DAC | OTCQB: TTMZF) about Datable's partnership with Dabbl and about its integrated consumer marketing programs with Universal and Coca-Cola.

In this InvestorIntel interview, which may also be viewed on YouTube (click here to subscribe to the InvestorIntel Channel), Kim Oishi highlighted the increasing pushback from regulators and consumers to prevent non-permissible uses of data and explained how Datable stands out by getting permission from and rewarding consumers who share their data. Kim went on to say that Datable's technology platform is scalable, secure, and stable, which has allowed it to become a big part of marketing programs for some of the world's biggest brands.
