

Steve Saviuk of Valeo Pharma talks about revenue growth following impressive market gains

written by InvestorNews | July 5, 2022

In this InvestorIntel interview with host Tracy Weslosky, Valeo Pharma Inc.'s (TSX: VPH | OTCQB: VPHIF) Founder, CEO and Director Steve Saviuk talks about the company's revenue growth driven by new product launches.

In the interview, which can also be viewed in full on the InvestorIntel YouTube channel (click here), Steve attributes Valeo's 80% Q2 revenue growth over the same period last year to the market success of its 3 lead blood thinner and asthma brands, Redesca, Enerzair and Ateectura, which are gaining on and have surpassed some of its major competitors in numbers of new prescriptions, which means significant revenue for the company. Steve goes on to say that pharmaceutical biosimilars have taken over 80% of the market in British Columbia and over 70% of the market in Quebec, and are growing in other major markets.

He also attributes Valeo's success to the expansion of the company's team. "We've grown dramatically in the last year in terms of people," he tells Tracy, "and I think you need to have commercial teams out there to in their in order to market products. We've grown to over 100 people from about 25-30 people in May-June of last year."
